Artist's Bio

Scott Listfield (b. 1976, Boston, MA) is known for his paintings featuring a lone exploratory astronaut lost in a landscape cluttered with pop culture icons, corporate logos, and tongue-in-cheek science fiction references. Scott studied art at Dartmouth College, for which his parents have finally forgiven him. After some time spent abroad, Scott returned to America where, a little bit before the year 2001, he began painting astronauts and, sometimes, dinosaurs.

Scott has been profiled in Wired Magazine, the Boston Globe, and on WBZ-TV Boston. His work has also appeared in New American Paintings and Surface Magazine, and In 2010 he was named a Massachusetts Cultural Council Grant finalist. Scott was the official artist of the 2011 Boston First Night, when his artwork was featured on posters, billboards, TV commercials, and tens of thousands of buttons during the New Year's festivities. He has exhibited his work extensively in Boston, and less extensively in Los Angeles, New York, and Miami. To learn more about Scott and his work, please visit his website at www.astronautdinosaur.com
